1. Context

The Stronger Control Act (Dutch: Wet Versterking Besturing) became effective on 1 September 2010. This relates to the altered legal criteria on the basis of which a student is eligible for the legally-specified tuition fees upon registration for a financed course of studies in higher professional education.

Students who do not meet these criteria owe institutional tuition fees.

Because the Act also determined that educational institutions will no longer receive funding for these students, the Act grants the institution governors some freedom to determine the level of institutional tuition fees. The participation council has prior recommendation authority in respect of decisions on the policy in respect of institutional tuition fees.

In the regulations for tuition fees it was determined that Fontys would charge high rate institutional fees to students who on the basis of statutory criteria are no longer eligible to study at the basic statutory tuition fees rate.

In the 'Nationaal Programma Onderwijs' (NPO), a government programme for the development of education to counter the effects of COVID-19 on education, a measure for a one-time halving of the full statutory tuition fees is included. In the letter 'Nationaal Programma Onderwijs - middelen en verzoek besteding 2021' (ref.nr. 27559271, april 2021), the Ministry of Education, Culture and Science ('OCW') has asked institutions of higher education to apply this reduction of the tuition fees for the academic year 2021-2022 in advance of the talks regarding the implementation of the legislative amendment by the Senate and Parliament, which will be held in May 2021. Fontys has implemented this reduction; this is a one-time reduction of 50% of the statutory tuition fees.

Institutions of higher education will be compensated for this reduction by the Ministry. Fontys will recharge the full compensation for this reduction to students, in the determination of the tuition fee amounts. For institutional tuition fees, this means that Fontys has applied a one-time reduction of a maximum of € 1.084, for the academic year 2021-2022.

The tuition fees as included in these regulations are the normal amounts, excluding the reduction resulting from the NPO. Final tuition fee amounts for the academic year 2021-2022, that include the reduction, can be found in the addendum at the end of these regulations.

2. Who is eligible for the statutory tuition fees?

Statutory tuition fees are payable by students who meet the following criteria:

a. Nationality requirement

The student belongs to one of the groups of individuals as intended in article 2.2. of the Student Financing Act 2000 (Dutch: Wet Studiefinanciering 2000) (students with EEA or Swiss nationality) or the student has Surinam nationality;

AND

b. Degree not yet obtained

The student registering for an associate degree course has not previously obtained an Associate Degree, Bachelor's Degree or Master's degree.

The student registering for a Bachelor course has not previously obtained a Bachelor's Degree.

A student registering for a Master course has not previously obtained a Master's degree.

This relates to degrees (or equivalent certificates) from financed Dutch universities or universities of applied sciences since 1991, as entered in the Central Register for Enrolment of Higher Education (CRIHO).

The condition referred to in sub b. does not apply to students following a course of studies in the field of education or health care, for the first time.

The condition referred to in sub b. does not apply to students following an associate degree-, bachelor- or master course in the field of education or health care, for the first time.

This means that students who have obtained a degree in a field other than health care and education, may follow a course of studies in one of the fields of health care or education subject to statutory tuition fees only once. The table below indicates which fees will apply for this specific group:

1 st degree obtained (associate degree, bachelor or master):	Student follows 2 nd course of studies in the field of:	Tuition fees 2 nd course of study:
Field other than health care and education	Health care or Education	Statutory tuition fees
Master in health care or education	Bachelor in health care or education	Statutory tuition fees

Master in health care or education	Master in health care or education	Institutional tuition fees
Bachelor in health care or education	Bachelor in health care or education	Institutional tuition fees
Master, Bachelor or Associate degree in health care or education	Associate degree in health care or education	Institutional tuition fees

In addition to criteria for statutory tuition fees as referred to above, additional (statutory) regulations apply to the following specific groups:

- Students who have started a second study programme while following a first study programme are permitted to complete this study programme, if uninterrupted, subject to payment of the statutory tuition fees. This regulation was adopted in the Act and became effective per 1 September 2014.
- Students who have completed an initial study programme subject to statutory tuition fees and subsequently, during the same academic year, start a second study programme can study for the remainder of the academic year in question subject to statutory tuition fees. In the next academic year, they will pay institutional tuition fees.

[1] Transitional arrangement

Starting academic year 2018-2019, the institutional tuition fees for a number of study programmes have been raised. Fontys has a transitional arrangement for students who have started their study programme in or before academic year 2017-2018. They will pay the institutional tuition fees that were applicable according to the tuition fees regulations 2017-2018, increased with a yearly indexation.

Students who have started in or before academic year 2017-2018 are eligible for this transitional arrangement for a maximum of five consecutive academic years. This maximum is calculated from the academic year in which the student started the concerning study programme.

I.e.: For students who started their study programme in academic year 2017-2018, the transitional arrangement expires September 2022; therefore, from academic year 2022-2023 onwards, the increased rate will be charged.

For students who started their study programme in academic year 2016-2017, the transitional arrangement expires September 2021; therefore, from academic year 2021-2022 onwards, the increased rate will be charged.

Etc.

For students who are eligible for the transitional arrangement and who start (switch to) a different study programme, the transitional arrangement ends with immediate effect.

[2] The above rate for the Master course offered by Fontys in collaboration with Codarts Rotterdam will be determined in consultation with Codarts Rotterdam.
